

International observers of Somaliland's presidential election on 13 November 2017 urge all parties to use legal channels to resolve post-election differences from the British

