

LondonMed Teachers and Advisers Conference (Online) 2022

For the first time the five London medical schools have come together with the Medical Schools Council and Health Education England to deliver a free virtual conference for teachers and careers advisers who support students through the medicine application process.

The purpose of the conference is to inform teachers and advisers so they can advise and support their students to consider and apply successfully to medicine. The conference aims to support teachers and advisers from schools who have no or very small applicants to medicine, and who support students with education or socio-economic disadvantaged backgrounds.
