

If you're keen to get started, here are a few resources that you might like to dip into before you start your studies. These are not mandatory reading, rather a selection of articles and podcasts our team recommend. They are all freely accessible online.

You will get dedicated reading lists for each module when you start.